

No : .....

Date : .....

: .....

..... الرقم:

..... التاريخ:

الموافق:

Introduction to practical education 0501450(3 credit hours)

The Introduction to Practical Education course deals with some matters related to the teaching profession and its ethics, and what it requires of the professional preparation process for the teacher. It also seeks to introduce the place of practical education in the teacher preparation curriculum, its concept and importance, some of its principles and modern trends in it, its stages and methods, and the relationships between its parties, and renews The course covers the educational competencies that teachers must possess in the areas of (planning, implementation, and evaluation). In addition to exposure to some technical and administrative difficulties and problems that the student/teacher may encounter during practical application and proposing solutions to them. The course also deals with training students practically by presenting illustrated classroom situations, or presented by the students themselves, and then discussing them collaboratively.